

Local Pharmacist and Pharmacy Technician Speak at University of Georgia College of Veterinary Medicine Conference on Veterinary Oncology

Hickory, NC (12/1/07- 12/2/07)- Bill Mixon, RPh, MS, FIACP and Samantha Aaron, BA, CPhT, of The Compounding Pharmacy, went to the University of Georgia College of Veterinary Medicine the first weekend in December. They were speakers at the Veterinary Oncology conference that was specified towards managing cats and dogs with cancer. They both spoke of the options that compounding can offer to Veterinarians in the treatment of their patients. Bill Mixon and Samantha Aaron were invited to speak by Dr. Nicole Northrup of the University of Georgia College of Veterinary Medicine. The Compounding Pharmacy has been compounding chemotherapy medications for the College of Veterinary Medicine for over two years. The Compounding Pharmacy has been invited to speak at other upcoming events through the University of Georgia.

The Compounding Pharmacy is located at 750 4th St SW in Hickory, and has been in operation for over 9 years. It is a compounding only pharmacy and is Western North Carolina's only PCAB Accredited pharmacy. It combines state-of-the-art equipment, specialized training, and extensive support network to provide unique, customized medications for human and veterinary use.
